Starting afresh

From the crisis of today, the Church of tomorrow will emerge - a Church that has lost so much. She will become small and will have to start afresh more or less from the beginning. She will no longer be able to inhabit many of the edifices she built in prosperity. As the number of her adherents diminishes, so it will lose many of her social privileges. In contrast to an earlier age, it will be seen much more as a voluntary society, entered only by free decision ... The Church will be a more spiritual Church, not presuming upon a political mandate, flirting as little with the Left as with the Right.

Joseph Ratzinger, the future Pope Benedict XVI, writing in the 1960s

22nd SUNDAY OF THE YEAR

“This people honours me only with lip service, while their hearts are far from me”

It's the heart that matters! Jesus returned to this theme often in His preaching. It was a revolutionary message at that time. Central to the religion of the day was the strict observance of rules, regulations and rituals, and the avoidance of foods that were 'unclean'. The Law had become an end in itself. Jesus respected the Law but He despised legalism. He warned against identifying religion with performing external acts. He presented a very different vision, a liberating path, a religion centred on the heart. He directed His listeners to look inwards, reminding them that the heart is the fountain from which all things spring, good or evil. True religion is indeed heart work and the art of authentic Christian living consists in the rhyming of wholesome hearts with worthwhile deeds. If we get the heart right, beautiful deeds will flow. We will reach out to our brothers, sisters and all living things with kindness, tolerance, compassion and respect. May He, who alone can see the 'inside' make our hearts all that they were meant to be.

‘I believe that the only true religion is having a good heart’. (Dalai Lama)
